NOTED NATIONALIST EDITOR DELIVERS FORCEFUL ADDRESS TO CROWDED MEETING IN UNION

Striking Presentment of one Viewpoint on the Matter of Canada's Contribution to the Imperial Navy—Scathing Arraignment of the Canadian Militia and Sarcastic References to City Publications

MR. HENRI BOURASSA MAKES SPLENDID SPEECH

The McGill Canadian Club held its first meeting of the season under most auspicious circumstances. The club was most fortunate in having as its speaker Mr. Henri Bourassa of Nationalist fame. That Mr. Bourassa's reputation as a brilliant speaker and a keen thinker had preceded him was evident from the crowded condition of the Union Hall. The hall was literally filled to the doors and even the gallery was occupied. The first two rows were occupied by representatives of the R.V.C.

The many students who had braved the elements were well rewarded for their energy. For over an hour Mr. Bourassa held his audience, and in a most brilliant and flashing manner, told both what his defence policy was and why he held it. In many of his statements he found a very sympathetic audience and was repeatedly cheered to an echo.

Before Mr. Bourassa's address, nominations were called for this year's officers, with the following results:—

President—Hugh Farthing and W. A. Walsh.
Vice-Pres.—Sidney Bruneau (acclamation).
Secretary—H. Beatty and J. Bieler.
Treasurer—R. Donald and R. Struthers.
Literary Correspondent — B. E. Atkins (acclamation).

With much applause Mr. Bourassa was then introduced and spoke as follows on Canada's Naval Policy.

It gives me great pleasure to accept this invitation to speak to McGill. I have a bad reputation, I know, and I won't promise to reform for I feel it my duty to speak plainly to fellow Canadians at this University so that they may keep at McGill the right spirit which has always characterized the British Universities and so doing may prevent Canada from falling like the Americans into a state of intolerance towards all but men of their party.

The Navy Question is the most burning question in every part of the Empire. I intend to speak as a Canadian and a British subject for I am just as proud of both (cheers). The subject has to be considered both from the sentimental and reasonable points of view. There has been so much of the former in the newspapers that I intend to speak chiefly on the colder point of view.

The first point to be considered is whether we must contribute to maintain the British navy, and if so in what form should we contribute to be in accordance with the principles of Colonial self-government.

He then went on to consider the real basis of our relations with Great Britain. (Continued on page 4.)

PHILOSOPHICAL CLUB HANDLES PSYCHO-ANALYSIS

Undergraduate Organization Probes Most Baffling and Profound Psychological Problems

The first meeting of the Philosophical Society for the year 1912-13, took place on Wednesday evening, November 6th, at Strathcona Hall. It was an open meeting and there was an attendance of 28. The paper of the evening was given by Dr. W. D. Tait, the honorary president, on the subject of "Psychoanalysis."

Psychoanalysis is an attempt to reserve whole regions of the mind from the realm of chance, and to explain them by means of the law of cause and effect. Sigmund Freud is the chief name associated with the subject although Breuer was the first to introduce a new method. The working of the human mind in hysteria, dreams, and moments of forgetfulness is the especial field of this investigation. The thesis is that emotional memories and hidden experiences, all churned up together, break through the weakened censorship of the mind when off its guard.

Buried or repressed memories with a strong emotional coloring are the major causes of hysterics. Disturbances arise when the experiences on which these memories are founded are not given the proper expression at the time they occur. It is found that a cure may be effected by requiring the patient to relate all kindred memories whatsoever that may arise. In this way the inhibited ideas are liberated and the chain of thought is given free and normal expression.

Repression is one of the most common reasons why we forget, since each of us tries to repress that which is not agreeable. The suppressed complex of ideas may come back into consciousness in a distorted form; so much so, perhaps, that the subject may fail to recognize the origin. Or, the details may be buried

INDIVIDUAL CUPS FOR BIRKETT TEAM

Every Member of Rifle Aggregation will Receive Individual Trophy from Dr. Birkett

Through the kindness of Dr. H. S. Birkett, Hon. Pres. of the McGill Rifle Association and donor of the Birkett Cup; the club this year will award individual trophies to the men comprising the Birkett Team, which shall consist of the five high men of any one year.

As on previous occasions this competition will take place on the day of the Intercollegiate shoot.

This will undoubtedly ensure keen competition between the Riflers—stimulating each member to recruit men from his own year, thus by increasing the interest it will be possible for the association to put a better team in the field to compete for Intercollegiate honors.

while the main feature of an unpleasant experience remains. In the case of recalling some individual memory it often happens that we arrive at it through a sort of symbolism. Thus most distantly related ideas may serve to call up and suggest the particular memory with which it had been associated. This constructive process of symbolism is also common in the manufacture of dreams.

Two opinions have been held with regard to dreams. Some regard them as having a meaning, and as being predictions of the future. While so-called scientists ridicule the whole matter and ascribe dreams to one's physical condition at the time or to previous worry. A wish which is not repressed will not appear in a dream. This suppressed wish is the real cause while the recent events, pains, and etc., are only the instigators, so to speak, which enable the wish to break through the mental censorship which is weakest during sleep.

FRATERNITIES AND THE ANNUAL

We published in yesterday's Daily a letter from Mr. Hugh Griffith dealing with the space occupied in the University Annual by the Fraternity crests and lists of chapters. Mr. Griffith states that in the 1913 Annual 27 pages were devoted to this purpose and he claims, and very justly, that there are many readers who do not at present take any interest in the above mentioned space.

Mr. Griffith's contention requires the earnest consideration of those in charge of the publication of this years annual. He is perfectly correct in this his statement with regard to the crests and the interest created thereby in the mind of the average reader who is not interested in a fraternity. Even fraternity men must feel that surely a better showing could be made in this regard.

The 27 pages mentioned by Mr. Griffith can have, as they are at present filled, but little of interest to the fraternities themselves. Many of the crests are in no particular way artistic and none of them make any specific appeal to most purchasers of the volume. We naturally presume that an international fraternity has sent. What we are interested in is in the fraternities here at McGill, in the part they play in college life, in the houses they occupy, and in the undergraduates who are members of the local chapters.

At present the pages occupied by the fraternities are but little better than so much advertising matter. It is stated that the Annual Boards have in the past been responsible for this state of affairs. If this is so now is the time for the 1914 Annual Board to demonstrate their superiority to their predecessors. Let them obtain photographs of general interest from the fraternities and utilize them to make the aforesaid space of real interest and bearing upon the connection of the fraternities with this University.

We wish it understood that this editorial is merely a means of emphasizing a good suggestion. It is not a criticism of the present Annual Board, nor even of those of the past. We imagine that the idea of utilizing the space occupied by the fraternities in such a way as to make it more attractive, has perhaps not occurred to any of the previous Annual Board. Why not allot the same identical space to the fraternities but change the matter therein in some respects. We feel sure that the fraternities themselves could have no good reason to object to such a change and would perhaps gladly cooperate in regard to this matter with the Annual Board.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Yesterday afternoon rain interfered with the practice and there was only a small trun out. Shaughnessy sent the men around the track two or three times just to keep their muscles from getting stiff.

Gray Masson has blood-poisoning in one of his feet and is likely to be out of the game for some time at least, if not for the whole season.

Lewis who graduates this year will be a difficult man to replace. Jack plays a very consistent game and has improved wonderfully this year. Bill Pennock and George Kennedy the outside wings on the second team are both fast men, and sure tacklers.

It has been rumoured that Art
Black and Dob Brophy both of this year's Ottawa Interprovincial Team will be at McGill next fall. These men would help greatly to strengthen up our team which is going to suffer greatly by its players graduating.

Scott of Parkdale will be one of the officials for Saturday's game here and a McGill, to be appointed will act with him.

Toronto is almost football crazy
just at present. It was a great surprise to most of the Argonaut supporters when their team defeated Ottawa; and now that they look good for the Championship they are getting the very best encouragement.

The Basketball team intend going on a tour about the 25th of this month. They will visit some of the smaller towns in New York State and ought to leave a good impression behind as the team is very strong.

The Camous yesterday greatly resembled a lake. The whole field was covered with water a couple of inches deep and was more suited for a duck pond than for a football field.

Montgomery played quarter last year for St. Andrew's College School Toronto, and will be given a try-out at this position before the present season is concluded. McEvenue is graduating this year and Shaughnessy will need a quarter-back next fall.

Jack Maynard may be in the game against Queen's as his leg is very much better and Toronto realize that they must win this game at all costs

The class games for the Woods Cup are in full swing, yesterday morning
'15 played '16 and beat them by an enormous score.

Hazlett of Queen's plays much the same style of game as Ken Williams puts up.

Up in Toronto they have a great respect for George Laing; and they have the best of reasons for this as George always seems to play his best game against Varsity.

BASKETBALL SQUAD WILL HOLD MEETING

Prospects Indicate Probability

ing New Matro-
ial in Sight

An important meeting of all those who are playing or have played, or who intend to play, basket ball, is to be held this afternoon at 4.30 sharp in the Gymnasium. There is a great deal of business to be discussed that will be of interest to any player or follower of the game in the University, and no one should miss this by any chance. Especially are those who have not turned out yet, requested to be there, for there is lots of room for a great many good men. McGill has always occupied a prominent place in the basket ball world here in Canada, and it is up to the men to keep this place up. The officers of the Club are expecting a large attendance at this meeting and from what has already been done,
their expectations will be fulfilled.

PHYSICAL SOCIETY

At the meeting of the McGill Physical Society, held on Wednesday afternoon, in the Physics Building, Dr.
A. S. Eve presented a paper on
"Some Recent Work Throwing Light
on the Nature of Rontgen and Gamma Rays." The speaker gave a summary of C.T.R. Wilson's work in causing moisture to condense on ions by expanding the air in a dust-free vessel. By allowing a specially devised piston to fall, the air is expanded and consequently cooled.
This causes condensation. A beam of X rays traversing the vessel ionizes
the air in its path, the ions forming the nuclei of the condensed water particles. The interior is then photographed by the aid of a flash of light from a convenient source. The

The entire squad of University of Toronto hockey players will leave Toronto on Christmas night for a two weeks' trip including visits to Ottawa, Boston, New Haven, New York and Syracuse, when games will be played with all the great American universities. The itinerary of the trip has been arranged as follows:—

Dec. 26—New Edinburgh, at Ottawa.
Dec. 27—Boston A.A.A., at Boston.
Dec. 28—Harvard University, at Boston.
Dec. 30—Yale University, at New Haven.
Jan. 1—New York A.C., at St.
Nicholas Rink.
Jan. 3—Princeton University, at
New York.
Jan. 5—Cornell University, at Syracuse, N.Y.

All the games but the one at Ottawa will be played on artificial ice, and the students expect to have a month's practice at the Arena before they leave on the trip.

University of Toronto will open the Intercollegiate championship season with Queen's at Kingston on the 11th of January.

The players that have signified
their intention of playing are: Goal,
Parker and Laird; defence, Firth,
Hanley, Caldwell, German; centre, E.
Jupp, J. Spratt, Strome, Pete Campbell; rover, Webster, Clarkson; wings, Blakely, Sinclair, McKenzie, Aird.

The home games of the Intercollegiate team will be played at Arena Gardens on Saturday afternoons. A series of the O.H.A. but a junior
series of the O.H.A. but a junior
team will be entered anyway.

photographs show that the X rays
do not ionize directly, but set free a number of electrons which then perform this action. The path of each electron is indicated in the photographs by a number of bright points of light which are the condensed particles of water on the separate ions.
When a piece of radium was placed in the vessel, the paths of the alpha rays were obtained. In this case it was impossible to distinguish the separate drops of water owing to the intensity of the ionization.

The speaker then reviewed the theories accounting for the nature of Gamma rays, and pointed out that their propagation as pulses in the other under the law of inverse squares could not be admitted from a consideration of the energy expended in ionizing at distant points. This would however be consistent with the view that they are linear translations of energy. As an example of the latter idea, Dr. Eve showed a striking experiment with vortex rings, which concluded the address.

CORRESPONDENCE

November 7th, 1912

Editor McGill Daily.

Dear Sir—

May I be permitted the use of your columns to bring before the notice of the Student Body two Athletic Regulations which they are not sufficiently regarding.

In the first place I want to emphasize the Physical Examination. By regulation no man is allowed to take part in Athletics of any kind—even in class matches—without having passed a physical examination. It is possible, for the Athletic Executive to enforce this absolutely, but all captains of teams of any description whatsoever have this responsibility resting upon them. This rule was not made as a form of coercion but as a safeguard to life and limb.

In the next place a constant source of trouble and worry both to Prof. De Lury, the Secretary of the C.I.A.A., and Grant, the Secretary of the McGill A.A.U., is the method or lack of method that most club managers manifest in sending the eligibility form of their players. These must be handed to Grant at least a week before any game so that he can forward them to Prof. De Lury by four days before the game. Not only is it a source of worry by the C.I.A.A.U., which controls all College Athletics, but is justified in considering a game forfeited in which a non-registered or late-registered student is playing and also in forcing the University Association for its lidity, due to the care-

INTERCOLLEGIATE RIFLE MATCH

McGill Team Hopes to Win
Back Cup which was Lost
Last Year

To-morrow is going to be the great day for the McGill Rifle Club, for the Intercollegiate match will then take place. Five teams will participate—namely: McGill, Toronto, Queen's, Bishop's, Dalhousie. Every effort has been expended this season so as to get a championship for McGill, and it is hoped that to-morrow we will win back the cup which was lost last season.

There is great enthusiasm among the members of the Club who feel that we will have a good chance provided, of course, that we are lucky as regards weather. Many of the men have been down to shoot regularly three times a week for the last four weeks and it is hoped that they will make a good showing to-morrow. It has been rumored that several R.M.C. graduates, now at McGill, will be on hand to-morrow and if they do turn up they will certainly prove a welcome addition to the team. But in spite of these men the Rifle Club are depending to a great extent on the shooting of the second class shots, who have managed to make one or two places on the team. Every member of the Club is wanted to-morrow.

The list of prizes have been arranged by the faculty. In former years it has been the custom to give money prizes, but last year it was decided in a Club meeting that it savoured too much of professionalism and so cash prizes were abolished and medals and cups substituted.

The list of prizes is as follows:
1st prize. "Executive Cup."
2nd prize. Silver Cup or Medal.
3rd prize. Silver Medal.
1st of 2nd class. Bronze Medal.

The first eight men are also awarded badges to be worn on their sweaters. These badges are second in importance only to the "Championship" M.

To-morrow's shoot will also count in the competitions for the Dominion Salver and for the right to be awarded to a Freshman.

A special car has been arranged for and it will leave La Salle Ave. at 8.30. Everyone should try and catch this car. The Faculty have arranged to give the attendance for Saturday morning lectures to all those who are down shooting. The list will be sent in by the captain.

It has been decided to hold extra series matches at the different ranges. These were tried last year and proved to be a great success. The entrance fee is 25c and the proceeds are divided up into five prizes. The competition at each range is quite separate. Five shots are allowed per card. Any number of cards can be bought.

The government has signified its intention of refunding all transportation expenses to and from the ranges during the rifle season. The money will be given out later. An announcement will appear in the Daily. The Janitor will supply lunch this year as usual. It can be obtained from him at the range and will consist of sandwiches, hot coffee, etc.

Ammunition will, of course, have to be obtained from the Arts Building. The executive are endeavoring to obtain 1912 ammunition and if they do, it will be exchanged for the old at the ranges.

SWIMMING.

The picture of the Swimming and Polo teams has been postponed until further notice. The men for this will not meet at Rice's to-day.

lessness of the club managers—which it sometimes does.

Reports of the games, also, must be sent in right after each game.

Lastly, I would like to request each Athletic Club Secretary to send me immediately an accurate estimate as possible of their membership this year. Thanking you for this space.

I remain,

Sincerely yours,
HERBERT F. THOMSON,
Pres. Athletic Assoc.

P.S.—In regard to the enquiries for information concerning the regulation sweater, I would like to say that the executive are at present searching for proof as to which of two designs is the latest and official.

HISTORICAL CLUB MET LAST NIGHT

Modern Statesmen were Discussed—Mr. Farthing Read Interesting Paper on Chamberlain

The first paper of the evening was read by Mr. Farthing on Chamberlain. He opened with a reference to George Arliss' recent play 'Disraeli.' An analogy here drawn is to the effect that Mr. Jos. Chamberlain was the best hotel man in England. Jos. Chamberlain was born and educated in London. He early moved to Birmingham, with which place his name has since been closely related. His early interest in politics is still alive for though retired he is in a sense the advisor of his party.

Mr. Farthing frankly admitted that he approached the subject with the attitude of a live worshipper. In early life he was very radical, one of the most so in England. His early interest was in Birmingham's municipal elections. Mr. Farthing traced Mr. Chamberlain's career, showing how he had helped Birmingham until the time came when he was called upon to enter Parliament. Here he was the first socialist radical leader. Chamberlain spent much time in re-organizing the Liberal party, that this work was well done, was shown in the next election. He then, after four years parliamentary service, entered the Cabinet as President of the Board of Trade.

The great outstanding feature in his career was his break with Liberals over Irish Home Rule. His great objection was not on principle, but on the length to which the measure went. His opposition was largely on Imperial grounds. Charges of insincerity are really false, what Chamberlain did was to sacrifice certain political future for principle.

The second great stand of Joseph Chamberlain was that on Imperial Preferential Tariff. With this stand we usually connect the name Chamberlain. Soon after the general election on this issue in 1906, King Joseph resigned.

The second paper was on Clemenceau by Mr. Bieler. He traced Mr. Clemenceau's early education and later career. At an early age M. Clemenceau went to America and their married an American girl, one of his pupils in French.

At the time of the French Civil war he returned to Paris and took an active part in affairs. He occupied high positions in both municipal and national governments. In his later offices he instituted many reforms in education.

For a considerable period of his life he was excluded from politics. At this time he devoted himself to literary pursuits. Here he distinguished himself, being very materialistic and pessimistic. Getting hold of some money he forced a new trial and saw Dreyfus declared innocent. He now returned to political life, and became the French Prime Minister. He dealt most skillfully with religious difficulties of 1906. On a want of confidence vote he was forced to resign.

Prof. Du Roure continued in French the discussion of Clemenceau commenced by Mr. Bieler in his paper. Prof. Du Roure, who has recently come to Canada from France, has had opportunity of seeing at first hand the working of the policies of Mr. Clemenceau. He emphasized the fact that Clemenceau was above all a negative politician, a destroyer rather than a builder. He is known among his countrymen as 'le tombeur des ministres.' He would turn out a government as easily as take off his coat. For this reason the world was curious to see just what would be the policy of M. Clemenceau when at last he became head of the government. It was through his unconquerable desire of getting the better of an opponent which prompted him to introduce matter into a debate which ultimately caused the fall of Clemenceau's government.

A system of proportional voting by which Minutiae might receive representation in the legislature was one of the reforms introduced by M. Clemenceau.

Prof. Du Roure declared that Mr. Bieler had handled the subject in such an able manner that anything he could say must necessarily be in the nature of a few rambling remarks.

Owing to Mr. McCrimmon's absence a slight innovation from the regular programme was arranged for. The place of Mr. McCrimmon was very ably filled by Mr. Newcombe, who delivered a short paper on Count De Witte.

This important man was made the first Finance Minister of Alexander III. His policy was a most progressive one for the development of Russia's natural resources. His great problem was to obtain capital. He first set Russia's finances in order, and then borrowed largely. Investors were encouraged.

His great feat, however, was the construction of the trans-Siberian railroad, important both to Russia proper and to Siberia. After the "Russian boom," a great collapse came, there had been a great deal of over production, and Count De Witte became most unpopular.

His final fall was caused through friction with his colleagues. He was charged with being a revolutionist, and anything which he did on behalf of the people made things worse. When he fell from grace with the Czar his fall was complete. Much as he may have cowered for Russia he had many faults.

The picture of Law Undergraduate Society will be taken after the morning lecture at 10.30 at the back of the Law Building.

There will be an important meeting of the Mining Society this evening at 8 in the lecture room of the Mining Building. The speaker will be John McCrae M.D., and will deal with first aid work. It is intended to inaugurate a class and a practical demonstration will be given at this lecture.

All members of the Mining Society of the III and IV years are especially requested to be present as class in first aid work will be arranged.

There will be no game this afternoon between '14 and '13 for the Wood Cup, owing to the sloppy condition of the field. The game has been postponed till 12 noon on Monday.

NOTED NATIONALIST EDITOR

Britain. In the last century the principles of self-government had been evolved. At present it is acknowledged by all leaders that the right of self-government is inherent with the principles of British rule. To prove this he quoted Lord Haldane on Self-Government. But these rights are binned to government of our own country. We have no international rights. Sir William Van Horne or Sir Thomas Shaughnessy are not British citizens when in a foreign country. The British Government reserve the right of citizenship for members of the United Kingdom.

The copyright too worthy of investigating a Canadian author can not protect his writings. The British Government have never respected the Canadian Copyright Law. The same was true as regards extradition. Our courts are powerless to deal with a Canadian who has committed a crime in another country.

One hears a lot about a navy to protect our merchant marine. No such thing exists. As soon as a ship is three miles away from our shore it is no longer under the Canadian Government. At the Imperial Conference the question was brought up but the British authorities made it clear that they intended to keep it under their control.

Canada neither has a consular representative in other countries. Our agent in Antwerp put up the Canadian coat of arms and was compelled to remove it. The British people will not stand for any partition of authority in such matters. I do not wish to develop any feeling of grudge (cheers) but as long as the British people have all the authority, they must also have the responsibility.

India, said Mr. Bourassa, and the crown colonies were tributes to Britain's greatness; they were well and wisely governed, Britain had made them, but Britain had reserved for herself all control of her policies in this direction. When had Canada or Canadian statesmen ever been consulted in these matters?

Even the German menace and any other menaces with which Britain is now threatened could be credited to English foreign policy. England had made Japan what she is—a menace. In all these Canada had no part. "For this," said the speaker, "I hold no grudge against British statesmen, but before we put our hands in our pockets, before I renounce what has been so often styled more narrow policy, I should like to know why Canadians should be asked to bear a burden for which she is not responsible."

Great Britain does not spend a farthing on behalf of Canada's defence, she could not spare us a gun, we should be prepared with these ourselves.

To support his arguments Mr. Bourassa then quoted from several authorities, including Justice Doherty and Sir Charles Tupper.

But his policy was not merely destructive, it had in it strong constructive elements. What Canada should do is to develop a militia which will not be the laughing stock of European experts. I do not blame the militia officers. It is not their fault, but rather of the politicians who have made the militia the worst graft in the country. These are the same politicians who do so much flag waving. The report of Gen. French explains in a most gentlemanly way what a farce our militia is.

Let Canada contribute to Imperial defence in her own way. She should rather make her militia efficient defend her ports and generally put her own House in order first. Con. Al-then, a noted authority, said that our best way to help defend the Empire is to make a strong militia. We need all our men here.

He would not deal, he said, with the subject of our wealth as compared with Great Britain's. It must be remembered that the people of the United Kingdom pay the price of their Sovereignty.

Few people realize that Canadians pay more Federal taxes alone than do the English people. Canada is a young nation, and has to spend money on railways, ports, etc. England has her system complete. To prove that we are poorer just see how all capital has to be obtained in London. A railway cannot borrow $100 in Canada. And yet the London bankers do not give us any better rates than they do to the rest of the world.

I am not an Englishman, he said, but if I were I would feel indignant at the thought that seven millions of Canada had to hand over thirty-five million dollars in order to save the Empire.

As for the question of Dreadnoughts, I am afraid I am not an authority though I am a newspaper man (laughter). Lord Charles Beresford, however, in his book 'Betrayal' says that Dreadnoughts are the peril of the British Navy. The newspaper talk is carrying through a policy which is rumour to the navy. He also proves in his book how great the great ship-building and armour-plate firms of Germany and England in league with the politicians.

If we send money to build battle-ships, we are paying money to Krupp.

When considering the danger to the Empire we must not forget that Asquith said there was no German menace and Churchill also said that the Admiralty have the situation well in hand. The Montreal Star, however, takes another view.

In conclusion, he said he thought that young Canadians should consider these matters. Instead of replacing the principles of self-government by trying to create a false system of Imperial unity, let us rather join hands in making Canada the richest and most prosperous country in the world. We can not make our foreign immigrants English, but we can at least make them Canadian.

After three cheers for Mr. Bourassa the meeting broke up.

WHERE MEN gather for social relaxation—in College Hall or in Clubdom, in bachelor or in benedict assembly, the question of clothes quality is ever a factor.

May we show you the new Semi-ready garments for Fall and Winter? It's a great pleasure always to see and to show things so finely made, so artistically conceived.

You will wonder, as others do, how we can sell such beautifully tailored garments for $15, $20, and up to the purest and finest woollen fabrics of England at $25, $30 and $35.
